Sanctuary Advisors, LLC is an SEC Registered Investment Adviser. Our registered representatives and financial professionals provide financial products and services to the general public.

Financial companies choose how they share your personal information. Federal law gives consumers the right to limit some, but not all, information sharing. Federal law also requires us to describe how we collect information about you, under what circumstances we may disclose the information to others, and how we safeguard your information in our possession.

Please read this notice carefully to understand our privacy policies.

Why We Collect Information

We collect and use information about you in order to provide you with our financial products and services. For example, we use your information to determine the appropriateness of our investment recommendations and to process transactions for your account.

What Information We Collect

The information we collect may include personal financial information such as your name, address, social security number, assets, income, net worth, investment experience, risk tolerance, investment objective, beneficiary designations, and other information derived from your account application.

How We Collect Information

We obtain most information directly from you when you establish an account or purchase financial products or services from us. For example, we may collect your personal information directly from you when you seek financial advice about your investments, direct us to buy or sell securities, provide employment information, or provide us with your government-issued ID. We may also obtain information about you from our financial professionals, and from third parties such as retirement plan sponsors or third-party administrators, mutual fund companies, insurance companies, your former broker-dealer, or adviser, as well as their registered representatives or advisors, clearing firms, or others who have provided you with financial products or services.

Information We Disclose

We may disclose information about you, as described above, to our staff, affiliates, representatives, their affiliated businesses, non-affiliated third parties who provide you with financial products and services, and our service providers, such as a mailing company. These non-affiliated third parties may include retirement plan sponsors or third-party administrators, mutual fund companies, insurance companies and agencies, other broker-dealers, and clearing firms. Our Privacy Policy is the same for current, as well as former clients. Also, if you close your account, in the process of transferring your investments, we may share your information with the new broker-dealer or custodian that you or your financial professional selects. We may disclose information such as your name, address, social security number, date of birth, transactional information, or other financial information, when necessary for us to provide you with financial products and services, or report on your account, or where disclosure is prescribed by law. For example, we report your tax-related information to federal and state governments, and we may disclose information during the course of an audit, or to law enforcement or regulatory agencies. We do not disclose your information to non-affiliated companies who intend to market their products to you. For example, we will not sell clients' names and addresses to a catalog or marketing company.

“Opting out” of Third-Party Disclosures

Financial companies choose how they share your personal information. Federal law gives consumers the right to limit some, but not all information sharing. Federal law also requires us to tell you how we collect, share, and protect your personal information.

Federal law gives you the right to limit only:

- Sharing for affiliates' everyday business purposes – information about your creditworthiness
- Affiliates from using your information to market to you
- Sharing for non-affiliates to market to you

State laws and individual companies may give you additional rights to limit sharing. Sanctuary may utilize common information systems or databases to which employees of our affiliates may have access that could contain your information. However, such information will not be disclosed by a Sanctuary affiliate, except as permitted by law.

How We Protect Personal Information

To protect your personal information from unauthorized access and use, we use commercially reasonable technical and physical security measures that comply with applicable law. When we share information with third parties, we hold parties to commercially reasonable standards of privacy protection. We have policies designed to ensure only those persons who need your information to perform their job have access to it. Other Applicable Laws

The practices described are in accordance with Federal Law. We also follow privacy requirements under applicable state law. If a state's privacy laws are more restrictive than those stated in this policy, we comply with those laws.

Some state laws grant additional privacy rights to their residents. If you live in an "opt-in" state, where we are required to obtain your affirmative consent to share your non-public personal information with non-affiliated third parties who do not currently assist us in servicing your account or conducting our business, your financial professional is required to obtain your consent before they can take your information with them should they leave our firm.
